CREDIBLE MESSENGER

GRADUATION

On August 4th, we joyously honored the achievements of 19 outstanding young individuals who successfully completed the 2023 Project Safe Neighborhood's Credible Messenger Youth Summer Violence Intervention Program. This initiative stands as a collaborative effort between our office, the U.S. Attorney's Office, and the Offender Alumni Association, marking the culmination of three consecutive summers of impactful partnership.

Throughout this transformative summer experience, our youth participants were fortunate to receive invaluable mentorship from Credible Messengers. They actively engaged in a diverse range of activities, enriching workshops, and immersive field lessons that were meticulously designed to foster growth in leadership, entrepreneurship, career advancement, and personal development.

The Blues or Depression?

There are periods when we feel down or sad, commonly known as the blues, a normal response to events such as a death, the end of a relationship, or losing out on a much-wanted job. The duration and intensity of those feelings is what separates the blues from depression. Typically, the blues do not hinder everyday functions. For example, although you may feel the blues about a break-up, you can still go to work or go out with friends. By contrast, depression may make it difficult for someone to get out of bed to go to work or even want to be around anyone or do anything.

Major depressive disorder or clinical depression is marked by symptoms that occur for at least two weeks, according to the American Psychiatric Association (2022) Diagnostic and Statistical Manual of Mental Disorders, fifth edition, text revised. Five symptoms must be present from the following list with at least one being depressed mood or loss of interest or pleasure:

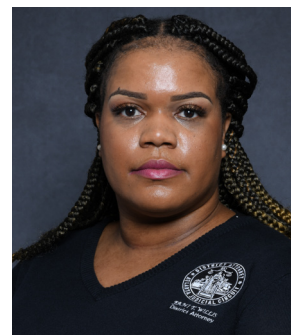

- Depressed mood most of the day, nearly every day
- Markedly diminished interest or pleasure in all, or almost all, activities most of the day, nearly every day
- Significant weight loss when not dieting or weight gain, or decrease or increase in appetite nearly every day
- A slowing down of thought and a reduction of physical movement (observable by others, not merely subjective feelings of restlessness or being slowed down)
- Fatigue or loss of energy nearly every day
- Feelings of worthlessness or excessive or inappropriate guilt nearly every day
- Diminished ability to think or concentrate, or indecisiveness, nearly every day
- Recurring thoughts of death, recurring suicidal ideation without a specific plan, or a suicide attempt or a specific plan for committing suicide

It is also important to note these symptoms must cause distress or impairment in functioning in normal daily activities. Several of these symptoms could also be associated with physical and other mental health disorders. So, it is important to refrain from diagnosing yourself.

If you have been experiencing symptoms for more than two weeks, see a medical professional to rule out medical issues. If you do not have medical issues, it may be appropriate to see a behavioral health professional for a proper diagnosis and treatment. Depression is common and should not be cause for embarrassment. “In 2021, an estimated 14.5 million U.S. adults aged 18 or older had at least one major depressive episode with severe impairment in the past year. This number represented 5.7% of all U.S. adults” (Substance Abuse and Mental Health Services Administration, 2022).

Seeking therapy and taking prescribed medications are great solutions. However, there are alternatives. Journaling is a great option and tool to use in therapy with the guidance of a professional. Exercising can alleviate depression because exercise releases endorphins that make us feel better. Avoiding substances such as alcohol can also be helpful because alcohol is a depressant that can increase depression. There are other options. Ultimately, you have to choose the best course of action for yourself.

The Fulton County Employee Assistance Program is available to all employees and provides up to eight free confidential sessions. It can be reached 24 hours a day, seven days a week by calling 800-999-7222 or visiting www.AnthemEAP.com (password: Fulton).

LAW CORNER

Opening statements are the first opportunity for a prosecutor to outline the case against the Defendant, giving jurors a roadmap by showing the evidence or describing the evidence in detail without overpromising what it purports to be. Embedded in this opportunity is the ability to show crime scene photos, physical evidence, video, diagrams, cellphone extraction contents, historical cell site analysis, 404(b) (“other acts”), etc. Divulging this evidence is permissible so long as a prosecutor has a good faith belief that the evidence will come out during the case-in-chief. Ross v. State, 233 Ga. App. 26, 27 (1998).

Typically, prosecutors know in advance what evidence to present. But what if a judge has yet to rule on the admissibility of evidence before opening statements? This typically happens when the defense files a motion to suppress evidence and a ruling has yet to be made. Until the judge rules, prosecutors are generally prohibited to discuss the evidence at issue in opening statements. What happens if the prosecutor mentions the evidence at issue in opening statements and the defense objects and moves for a mistrial? It’s neither the end of the world nor is it worthy of a mistrial even when the evidence has been suppressed but discussed in opening. See Myers v. State, 268 Ga. App. 607, 609-10 (2004). The appropriate remedy is a curative instruction in relation to comments about evidence.

Reach

Transformational Youth Mentoring

Celebrating a Year of Success: The Inaugural Year of the Reach Program

In its first year of operation, the Reach program has achieved remarkable success, leaving an indelible mark on the lives of students from six Fulton County Middle and High Schools. With dedication and innovation, Reach has not only enriched the educational landscape but also served as a beacon of opportunity for countless young minds.

One of the key milestones in our journey was the graduation of 120 students from our initial participating schools. These young graduates are the embodiment of our program's potential, showing that with the right guidance and support, the sky's the limit.

The Reach program owes much of its success to the exceptional mentorship curriculum crafted by our Reach Administrators and Director of Youth Services. This curriculum served as a guiding light for students, nurturing their personal and academic growth.

Enrolling students into Atlanta Technical College was another significant achievement. By opening doors to higher education, Reach has paved the way for students to pursue their dreams and aspirations, setting them on a path to success.

One particularly inspiring story emerged from Creekside High School, where a student with aspirations of becoming a police officer found support from Reach. This student now works as a resource officer at Creekside High School while diligently working towards the necessary certification to fulfill their dream—a testament to Reach's capacity to shape futures.

Several students have been able to secure employment thanks to our program, providing them with valuable skills and experiences that will serve them well in their future endeavors. The voices of our students have echoed beyond the classroom as well, with two of them featured in local news interviews, sharing their experiences and highlighting the positive impact Reach has had on their lives.

The Reach program's influence extended to the airwaves, with a feature on V103 broadcast radio, where Director Woodard and Madam DA discussed the program's achievements and its role in shaping the community's future. The remarkable achievements of our first year inspired Fulton County Schools Superintendent Dr. Looney and Madam DA to extend the program's impact. An additional dozen schools have enthusiastically joined the initiative, resulting in a total of 18 Fulton County Schools benefiting from it. This expansion not only affirms the program's effectiveness but also emphasizes its potential to steer students away from the criminal justice system, offering them a more promising future.

In response to the program's growing impact, Reach has introduced "Speakers Lane," a platform that allows more leaders to become involved in encouraging and supporting students. This initiative will undoubtedly foster a sense of community and mentorship, ensuring that even more young minds are inspired and empowered. As we reflect on this remarkable year, it's evident that Reach has not just met but exceeded our expectations. The program's success stories, partnerships, and community involvement have created a ripple effect of positivity, paving the way for a brighter future for our students and our community. With enthusiasm and gratitude, we look forward to building on these achievements in the years to come.

"It was truly a pleasure to engage in conversation with Dr. Maria Boynton from V-103, discussing the remarkable success of our Reach program. I am exceptionally proud of Aakeem Woodard, our dedicated Director of Juvenile Youth Services, for his outstanding leadership in spearheading this initiative." – Madam District Attorney Fani T. Willis

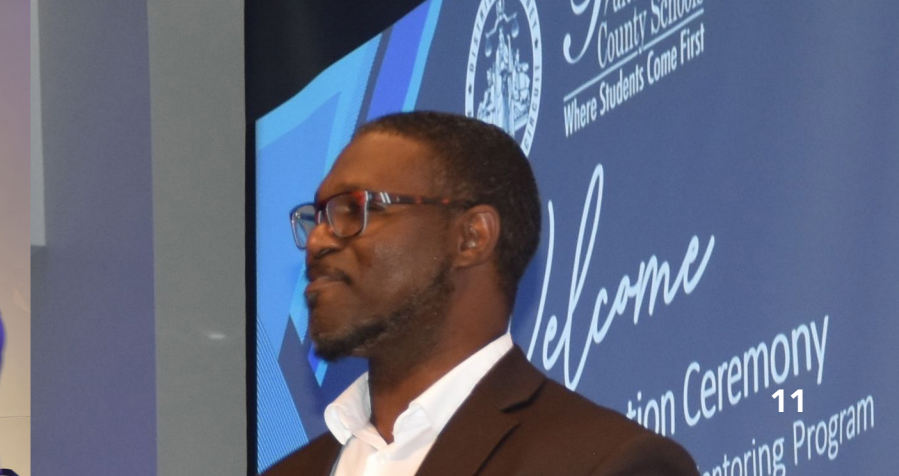

“It is an absolute privilege to have received such a warm and gracious welcome at Atlanta Technical College, led by President Victoria Seals and her exceptional team. Together, Dr. Seals and I have sealed a historic agreement between the Office of the District Attorney and Atlanta Technical College, with a shared mission of expanding opportunities for the children of Fulton County.

Last year, Dr. Mike Looney, Superintendent of Fulton County Schools, approached me seeking a partnership. In our discussions, it became evident that our schools were facing an alarming increase in confrontations, often escalating to dangerous levels due to the proliferation of firearms. Dr. Looney stressed the urgent need for collaboration to address these challenges and provide support to at-risk students. In response to his request, Aakeem Woodard, Director of Juvenile Services in my office, envisioned a transformative program, which we now know as Reach. Reach is a student-centric mentoring and coaching initiative under the auspices of the Fulton County District Attorney’s office.

Through this groundbreaking agreement, we are proud to extend the opportunity for Reach participants to pursue dual enrollment at Atlanta Tech. This empowers them to develop vital skills and earn certifications, setting them on a path toward 21st-century careers. What we are accomplishing here is nothing short of life-changing, impacting countless young lives for the better, not only today but for generations to come.”

- Madam District Attorney Fani T. Willis

SHOUT-OUTS

Please help me in a huge congrats to ADA Matthew Norwood for his huge win for our office down in Juvenile Court.

I am told he did a phenomenal job. He is the first attorney we know of in more years than we can count to win a transfer hearing. I am extremely proud of him.

Yours in Service,
Fani T. Willis

Congratulations to Appeals Senior ADA Ruth Pawlak for convincing the Court of Appeals to reverse the trial judge's grant of a motion for new trial! In the case involving Percy Small and two codefendants charged with a 2015 shooting, only one codefendant, Jerrontae Morris, was convicted of murder, and his conviction was recently upheld by the Supreme Court. The other codefendant, Allen Jones, and Small were acquitted of homicide but convicted of aggravated assault and related charges in a trial handled by CDDA Adriane Love and Senior ADA Brian Trepanier in October 2019.

Today, the Court of Appeals agreed with our position. This appeal wasn't made lightly; it was pursued because we believed the judge was wrong on the law. This outcome is significant, and I wanted to share it with everyone involved.

NBPA CONFERENCE 2023

We are thrilled to introduce our very own Deputy District Attorney Simone Hylton, who has been elected as the President of the National Black Prosecutors Association. Please join us in extending our warmest congratulations to her for this exceptional achievement!

The annual NBPA conference convenes a diverse group of prosecutors from across the nation, primarily consisting of African Americans. This event offers a unique opportunity to delve into discussions on evolving legal matters and legislative developments. It serves as a time for camaraderie and a platform to honor prominent figures in the field of prosecution and the broader community.

We're also proud to mention that Deputy District Attorney Asia Baysah and Sr. Assistant District Attorney Mychal Scates and are active members of the local Atlanta chapter board. If you have any questions about the organization, its mission, vision, or how to get involved, please don't hesitate to reach out to them for more information.

Congratulations

Deputy District Attorney

Simone Hylton

2023 NBPA President

OFFICE HIGHLIGHTS

On July 26th, DDA Natalie Zellner, Grant Director Michele Henry, and Juvenile Grants and Programs Coordinator January Towles met with Senior Advisor, Office of the Assistant Attorney General, Eddie Bocanegra from the Department of Justice to discuss our office's new Community Violence Intervention and Prevention grant.

On July 19th, Juvenile Grants and Programs Coordinator January Towles took part in a panel discussion during the CDC's Preventing Violence Affecting Young Lives (PREVAYL) Reverse Site Visit. The discussion focused on community-based violence and youth violence in Metro Atlanta, highlighting the proactive initiatives of our office and the Juvenile Intervention Initiative in addressing these pressing concerns. The audience comprised community-based violence intervention groups from across the nation.

On August 1st, a team consisting of DLA Lora Andrews, DLA Felicia Dickens, DLA Tammy Jackson-McClendon, CLA Patrice Stewart, HP+ LA Donald Moore, and Civil Forfeiture LA Fiza Altaf attended the Asset Forfeiture for Prosecutors Training organized by PAC. This training provided in-depth insights into the forfeiture statutes and processes specific to the State of Georgia. It highlighted recent changes in the procedures that both police agencies and the District Attorney's Office must follow. The training clarified which items can be seized and the reasons why some items cannot.

President-Elect Tona'e Clements, accompanied by Deputy Legal Assistant Lora Andrews, participated in a Georgia Association of Terminal Agency Coordinators meeting hosted at the Monroe County Sheriff's Office. Notably, Assistant Chief Richard Stein was also in attendance.

President-Elect Clements, who serves as the GCIC Manager/Agency TAC at the Fulton County Marshal's Department, brings a wealth of experience spanning over four decades in law enforcement TAC-related matters. Her dedicated partnership with the Fulton County District Attorney's Office has proven invaluable. President-Elect Clements generously shares her expertise, offers guidance, and consistently directs our organization in the right direction. We deeply appreciate her unwavering commitment to servant leadership.

ATLANTA
BLACK PRIDE™

On Sunday, September 3rd, the Fulton County District Attorney's Office staff, in collaboration with members of Madam DA's LGBTQ+ Advisory Committee, united to commemorate Atlanta Black Pride in historic Piedmont Park. The primary aim of this gathering was to enlighten the public about the pivotal role our office plays in the investigation and prosecution of LGBTQ+-targeted and other bias-based crimes.

During this event, we actively distributed our office's LGBTQ+ Resource Guide and provided essential information on the proper procedures for reporting a crime to our office, following initial contact with local law enforcement.

It brings us immense pride that the Fulton County District Attorney's Office is a recipient of the Matthew Shepard and James Byrd, Jr., Hate Crimes Grant, generously funded by the Department of Justice's Bureau of Justice Assistance. Funding from this grant has provided our office with a dedicated Hate Crimes Victim Witness Advocate who will ensure LGBTQ+ and other bias-based crimes are appropriately prosecuted and that victims and their families receive justice.

We remain committed to championing justice, inclusivity, and equality for all.

Executive Deputy Chief Richard Randolph

Richard Randolph has spent over two decades as a law enforcement officer in metro Atlanta yet is known as much for his varied volunteer efforts as his public-safety skills.

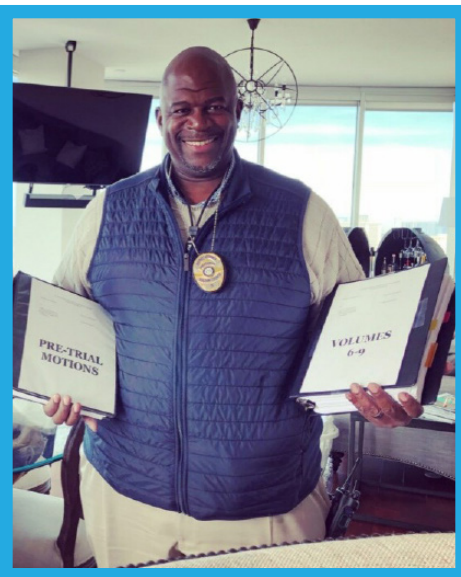

Richard spends time sharing his love for music through the professional music organization Phi Mu Alpha Fraternity Incorporated which he joined on the campus of Morris Brown College, Atlanta. He plays the baritone and trombone. He periodically plays with the Atlanta Soulful Symphony.

Richard is a founding member and current vice president of the 100 Black Men of Douglasville. He spends Saturday morning mentoring young men between the ages of 8-17.

Richard serves Douglas County through the Douglas County Library Board and West Georgia Libraries Board. He is also the Chair of Religious affairs for the West Metro Branch of the NAACP.

Richard is the current Chapter president of Alpha Phi Alpha Fraternity Incorporated Rho Pi Lambda Chapter. He spearheads initiatives such as Keep Douglas Beautiful Adopt a Road, Project Alpha, A Voteless People is a Hopeless People, and Go to High School Go to College.

Richard's greatest joy comes from being a father and grandfather. His granddaughter is right by his side as he serves the community on some weekends. When asked about his grand daughter Khloe, his only response is "Khloe is my Why".

Assitant Chief Obed Ford

Born and raised in NYC, Assistant Chief Obed Ford has always wanted to make a difference. He champions the weak and opposes bullies. In 1988, he joined the U.S. Department of Justice as a federal correctional officer working various high-level details. He became a member of the Special Operation Response Team (SORT) and was selected "Rookie of the Year".

In 1990, he joined the Nassau County Sheriff's Department N.Y., where he displayed a drive and tenacity that earned him special assignments. He was a member of the hostage negotiations team and was assigned to high-risk inmate housing units. He was eventually promoted to investigator in the Sheriff's Bureau of investigations Criminal Investigations Unit, where he participated in inmate/visitor criminal conduct and fugitive investigations.

In 1998, he was promoted to Senior Investigator and assigned to the Internal Affairs Unit and attached to the Nassau County District Attorney's Office Special Investigations Section, where he worked on complex investigations involving serious misconduct by sworn and civilian employees related to drug smuggling, abuse, theft and death in custody. He assisted the FBI in successfully prosecuting several correction officers for the beating death of an inmate. These investigations included working with U.S. Customs and covert surveillance. In 2001, he was part of the Sherriff's Departments Search and Rescue Team assigned to the 911/ Ground Zero location in NYC.

An avid photographer, Ford is working on getting his photographs published. He truly believes that "at the end of the game, both the Pawn and the King go back into the same box." So be honest, be kind, work hard and stay loyal because relationships matter.

Assistant Chief Brian Salters

While still in high school, Assistant Chief Investigator Brian Salters started working with law enforcement as an investigative aid at the Florida Department of Alcoholic Beverages and Tobacco (ABT). His job would entail recording the sale of alcohol or tobacco to minors at stores suspected of such illegal transactions. It was the ultimate experience for a kid who always wanted to be a police officer. Note: No tobacco or alcohol was harmed during these operations!!! Lol... The pay was $25 a day and a free Allstar Meal at Waffle House. Despite the meager compensation, Brian continued working with ABT through his college years. When not at band/football practice or ROTC, Brian was a teen member of vice.

Deputy Chief Robert Appell

Deputy Chief Investigator Bob Appell was born in Brooklyn, New York, and later moved to Suffolk County, New York, where he lived for almost 35 years. He owned and operated a successful trucking company while working as a Reserve Police Officer in Suffolk. After selling the trucking company, he remained in the town of Babylon in several different roles. He joined the Fulton County District Attorney's Office in 2015 and worked under the old administration in several units. After being rehired by Madam District Attorney, he spent more than a year in the Case Intake Division before being promoted to Assistant Chief of the Trial Division. After a few months, he was promoted to Deputy Chief Investigator. He thoroughly enjoys his job and working for this administration, which is why he clocks in at 7 a.m. daily. He believes in the goals of this administration and remaining loyal to Madam DA. Bob is previously divorced with two lovely kids. He has been married to his current wife, Willann, for 23 years and has two great stepdaughters who live in Venice, Florida, where Bob and his wife have a second home. Bob and Willann live in Buford with a small and playful Jack Russell Terrier named Pixie. They enjoy their time with four grandkids who live in South Carolina and Alabama. Bob's hobbies are very limited - between work and grandkids - who has time for anything else

Lieutenant Julisha Lansiquot

Lt. Julisha Lansiquot proudly hails from the captivating island of St. Croix in the U.S. Virgin Islands. With 14 years of experience in law enforcement, she has a Bachelor of Science Degree in Criminal Justice and a Crime Scene Technician Certificate from Kaplan University. She's currently in graduate school, pursuing a Master of Science in Administration of Justice and Security. Her credentials include certifications in crime scene processing, evidence processing, fingerprint analysis, and the National Integrated Ballistic Information Network (NIBIN). As a Federal Task Force Officer with the ATF, she contributes to this nation's safety and security. She comes from a loving and affectionate family, where she was raised in a spiritually grounded household. She's the proud mother of a gorgeous, caring, talented and athletic daughter. She enjoys spending time with family and close friends, reveling in good times, warmth, and love. She's adventurous and loves the outdoors, particularly the beach and rainforests. She believes in treating others as she would want to be treated and being courteous, kind, and respectful to all. Humanity is priceless. Life comes full circle - the seeds you sow will determine what you reap.
